Sequoia Coaches Lead Team to Tie for Title

By EL THOMAS

In their first year in charge of the Sequoia varsity football team, Coaches Leonard Casanova and Albert Terremore directed the Cherokee eleven into a tie for the Peninsula Athletic League championship after a satisfactory record of eight victories against three defeats and a total of 108 points to their opponents' 32.

Their share in the championship is the Cherokee's first league title in American football and puts Coach Casanova in a similar role to that of Coach Bill Ingram of the University of California, who placed the Bears back on the grid map in his first year at Berkeley. Casanova and Terremore bore out the prediction at the first of the season that they would make a natural coaching pair to put Sequoia back in the running. Coach Ray Dimick's second-place team of 1928 was the last high spot on the Cherokee grid calendar.

Will Lose Ends, Fullbacks
Capt. Jim Rhoda, candidate for all-P.A.L. honors at tackle; Jens Bugge and Leo LeRoy, star ends, and Roland Craven, fullback, are the regulars who will be lost by graduation next year, in addition to a dozen reserves.

The end and fullback positions will suffer the greatest depletion, as all but one player at these three berths will graduate. Bob Steiner and George Shicora, substitute fullbacks, will get diplomas, leaving only Lloyd Elliott. All the ends, including Bugge, LeRoy, Devin, Tuxford, Jelich, Shearer and Bjorkquist, are seniors. "Ky" Martin, first string guard;

Eaton, center, and Anthony, tackle, are others in the line who will be missing next year, while Bill Lewis, halfback, is a fourth-year student. Bomberg, guard, and Thimmler, quarterback, graduate.

Some of the regulars available for the 1932 eleven are Eno Ferrando, quarterback, who should become an outstanding field general during his remaining two years; Roy McQuilkin, Charlie Preston and Ken Hinchman, halfbacks; Stuart Goldthwaite, quarterback; Max Green, Lee Sterling and Val Guinasso, guards; Bob Svihus and Walter Worrell, centers; George Rhoda, Bill Ambrose, Everett Cole, tackles. Harold Kniveton is the only holdover who has had experience at end, and he was shifted to halfback in the middle of the season.

Win Eight Victories
After being scored upon but once in their first eight games, the Cherokees went into a slump. San Mateo scored a touchdown and Sequoia came back with three to win, but the slump continued in the Palo Alto game and was shaken off just in time to make a good showing against the powerful Bellarmine eleven in a charity game.

CARD TRACK STARS OUT OF I. C. 4-A

"Dink" Templeton, Stanford track coach, has boldly termed as "murder" the scheduling of the I. C. 4-A and the final Olympic Game track finals just a week apart.

No Stanford trackmen with a chance of making the American Olympic Games' squad, will run in the I. C. 4-A meet at Berkeley, Templeton declared. The latter meet is scheduled for Berkeley on July 8 and 9, while the final Olympic trials will be held at Stanford, July 15 and 16.

"Any coach who would enter men in both meets is not acting for the best interests of his runners," said Templeton.

The Stanford track coach expressed the hope that the I. C. 4-A meet could be set back a week, declaring that it would be impossible for athletes to be at the peak of form for two two-day meets in eight days.

U. C. Shows Gain In Football Attendance

BERKELEY.—A total of 404,993 people watched University of California football teams in action during the 1931 season. This total represents an increase of 23,900 people over the 1930 total when 381,293 attended games in which the Golden Bears participated, according to Harry Davis, ticket manager of the associated students.

U.C. STUDENTS TO PAY FOR GOAL POSTS

Stanford To Be Compensated For All Stadium Damage

What price glory? That is the question being asked throughout the University of California, whose triumphant roster took down the goal posts of the Stanford Stadium Saturday to celebrate the Golden Bear's 6 to 0 victory over the Indians—the first victory in seven long years.

From the California campus in Berkeley today came the announcement that the student body would compensate Stanford "for any damage in the stadium" done by the jubilant followers of the Golden Bear after the game. The damage included not only the destruction of the goal posts, but also a bright red water wagon which also passed to the possession of the souvenir hunters.

In the absence of Alfred R. Masters, general manager for the Board of Athletic Control, no information could be obtained as to the size of the bill that might be rendered to the school across the bay, but the market price of the pretty water carts is around $300, it was learned.

Meanwhile, an investigation is being conducted by the acting president, Dr. Robert E. Swain, into intercollegiate depredations which preceded the game. These included the smearing of red paint on the U. C. campus by Stanford sympathizers and the decoration of the Stanford Quad with blue and gold by California enthusiasts, an attempt to set off the Stanford bonfire prematurely, and the visit of a group of students from across the bay to a fraternity house, where they tried to burn a "C" on the lawn and were forcibly repelled and "taken for a ride."

Autos Damaged In Skidding Accident

Both cars were damaged when automobiles driven by W. H. McAuley, 1555 Greenwich street, San Francisco, and William Wallace, 2254 Tasso street, Palo Alto, collided early Thursday at Main and Maple streets.

Officer H. G. Fleishman reported that McAuley tried to stop but because of the wet pavement skidded into the car of Wallace. Both front left sides were damaged, but no personal injuries were sustained.

DARING ORCHID HUNT

LONDON.—Capt. F. W. Burdett is probably the most adventuresome orchid hunter in the world, and has missed death by a hair's breadth many times in search of rare blooms. He has combed the Philippine Islands in search of prize orchids and some of the best ones he has found in tree tops, 250 feet above ground. In climbing these trees he has encountered blood-sucking leeches, ants, wild bees and ferocious sand flies. Snakes in the jungles, have made his trips exciting.

Washington University's 1931 football team, in losing five straight games, scored but two points to its opponents' 125.

Templeton Acts to Get I.C. 4-A Meet Date Changed

Advancement of the I. C. 4-A track meet at Berkeley from July 8-9 to July 1-2 to give college athletes ample time between the intercollegiate championships and the Olympic Games tryouts in the Stanford stadium July 15-16 is asked here by Coach R. L. "Dink" Templeton, Stanford track coach, in a letter to Peg Murray, Stanford representative on the I. C. 4-A executive committee.

Templeton's request follows his announcement earlier this week that Stanford athletes having prospects of making the American Olympic team will not be allowed to enter the I. C. 4-A championships unless the date of the latter is set ahead one week.

In addition to the strain upon athletes entered in major meets only six days apart, Templeton said, the proximity of the two meets would affect the attendance at both. He suggested running the trials on Saturday, July 2, and the finals on Monday, July 4, in order to benefit from the holiday crowds.

47 CAGERS NAMED FOR SEQUOIA BASKET TEAMS

Forty-six candidates for positions on the Sequoia high school varsity and 130-pound basketball teams survived cuts in the two squads announced Thursday by Coach Frank Griffin of the unlimited team and Coach Ray Dimick of the 130's.

Coach Griffin reports one of the most balanced varsity turnouts in several years, with 27 men out and experienced players available at every position. The unlimited quintet will meet an alumni combination in a practice game in the Sequoia gymnasium at 7:30 o'clock. There will be no admission charge.

While the unlimiteds claim most of the veteran material, Coach Dimick has a few experienced cagers among the 19 surviving the cut. Coach Dimick will use the same system of play with the 130's as he used with the 110- and 120-pound aggregations this fall. Several innovations intended to speed up the play of the Cherokee varsity this year have been adopted by Coach Griffin. Both Sequoia quintets open their preliminary seasons with Lowell high school of December 4.

Sacramento Whips San Mateo Eleven; Win Jaycee Title

Sacramento Junior College won the Northern California Junior College football championship Wednesday by defeating San Mateo Junior College by a score of 19 to 0 at Seals Stadium in San Francisco.

The Sacramento Jaycee gridders scored all three of their touchdowns in the second quarter. Parnass opened the scoring with an eight-yard run around left end. Sacramento again drove toward the goal line, and from the nine-yard line Sims passed to Reiley for the touchdown. Harvey, Sacramento end, intercepted a San Mateo pass and ran 60 yards to the final score.

Harvey and Raney, the other Sacramento wingmen, were outstanding for the winners, while Capt. Bob Black of San Mateo stood out in the line work of Coach Murius McFadden's eleven.

Shawnee county one of the richest in Kansas, reports 6,172 horses on farms and only 325 tractors.

PHIL MOFFATT TO BE READY SATURDAY

Phil Moffatt, Stanford halfback, will be able to play part of the Stanford-Dartmouth game in Boston next Saturday. "Windy" Bigelow, husky guard, is definitely out with injuries.

Wire reports from Chicago, where the team stopped off for a few hours before continuing their trip east, had it that Coach Warner has pronounced Moffatt ready to play for the first time since being injured in the U.S.C. game three weeks ago. At the same time, Warner declared that Bigelow will be unable to participate. The Stanford left guard suffered injuries in the California game which will keep him on the bench during the Dartmouth contest.

In Chicago the team was greeted by Dick Hanley, Northwestern University coach and two former Stanford stars, Ernie Nevers and "Spud" Lewis. From Chicago the special train crossed the international boundary and rolled through Canada.

Ray Hulen will undoubtedly start at left guard in Bigelow's position, while it is quite possible that Warner will make several changes in the recognized Stanford first string on the basis of performances in the California game last Saturday. Jack Hillman, brother of Captain Harry, may get the call at the fullback position, with Moffatt and Caddell at halves and Captain Hillman at quarterback. Doubt and Colvin, center; Corbus and Hulen, guards; Ehrhorn and Grey, tackles and Bates, center, is Warner's probable choices in the line. Bates may get the call over Marks and Milligan, following his fine game at center against the Bears.

Dartmouth has been pointing for the Cardinals ever since taking a 14 to 7 beating in the Stanford stadium last year. After a poor start, the team has come ahead strong to tie Yale, 33 to 33, hold Harvard to a 7 to 6 score and then take Cornell 14 to 0. The Hanover team will start against Stanford with a two weeks' rest from competition and in splendid physical shape.

Bill Morton, Dartmouth backfield ace, will be the man the Cards will have to stop Saturday. Morton is a triple-threat performer and was the principal ground gainer in the game last year.

Card Mermen Smash Collegiate Records

Two national intercollegiate marks were shattered and one Pacific coast record bettered by two Stanford swimmers in a practice meet held Tuesday in the Stanford pool.

John McKelvey shattered the national short course record in the 50-yard doing 0:22.8 against the record of 0:23.2 held by Schwartz of Northwestern. He then entered the long pool to set an unofficial national record of 17.9 seconds in the 40-yard free-style.

Ted Wiget swam the 220-yard free-style in 2:17, bettering Austin Clapp's coast record of 2:17.1.

San Mateo Handicap Tomorrow at Tanforan

In honor of the county, the San Mateo Handicap will be started tomorrow (Saturday) at Tanforan. Two-year-olds will compete over a furlong course for $5,000 added, the second stake race of the week. The feature this week-end will attract many of the horses that went to the barrier last week-end in the rich San Francisco Handicap.

The San Mateo Handicap is expected to decide the best two-year-old at the track. Contesting for these laurels will be Bahamas and Sharp Thoughts, two stake winners of the present meeting. Both these horses will find themselves in fast company.

Bahamas went in for the San Francisco last week-end, but the distance proved too great and the horse tired on the stretch. This week he will be called upon to go only six furlongs, which is known to be far more to his liking. Should Bahamas throw off the gruelling effects of last Saturday's feature and beat the others to the barrier in the San Mateo, horsemen say he will win the honor of being the best two-year-old California has produced in three years.

Other horses scheduled to participate in the San Mateo include: Givanna, Coalizer, Chatter Queen, Eon Pepper, Call to Arms and El Cajon. The latter may be the sleeper this week that Seth's Hope was last week when he took the San Francisco, worth $10,000.

This week the first stake race was the Thanksgiving Handicap which proved a sensation and drew thousands of fans to the track for the holiday afternoon. This meeting has been unusually well attended throughout, the Pacific Coast Breeders' Association reports.

Woodside

We warned last week that if California won the game with Stanford we should do some boasting about the Woodside climate. For several years in succession Stanford finished up her training for the big game at the Family Farm in Woodside. On each of these years she won the football game. This year California put the finishing touches to her training at the Family Farm and won the football game. Was it only a coincidence? Quid quo ergo proper quo.

Chap up one more winning place for the Roth stables during the horse show season. Last week at the American Royal Horse Show at Kansas City, Mrs. William P. Roth's mare, Sweetheart on Parade, was awarded first place in the $10,000 saddle horse class. In nation-wide competition, during the season, both the Roth and the Rosecrans stables of Woodside have taken far more than their pro rata share of the first places.

After having been at their home here since the early spring, Mr. and Mrs. John Rosecrans returned to the city this week. They will occupy the home of Mrs. Rosecrans' mother, Mrs. Adolph B. Spreckels on Washington street. Mrs. Spreckels being in Europe with her two children for an indefinite stay.

For many years Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Harris and family have been among the best loved of our Woodside residents. We note with regret that they moved last week to New York where they plan to make their permanent home. Only a few weeks ago they completed the erection of an elaborate radio broadcasting station at their home here in order to be able to keep in touch with their yacht while it was on cruises in western waters.

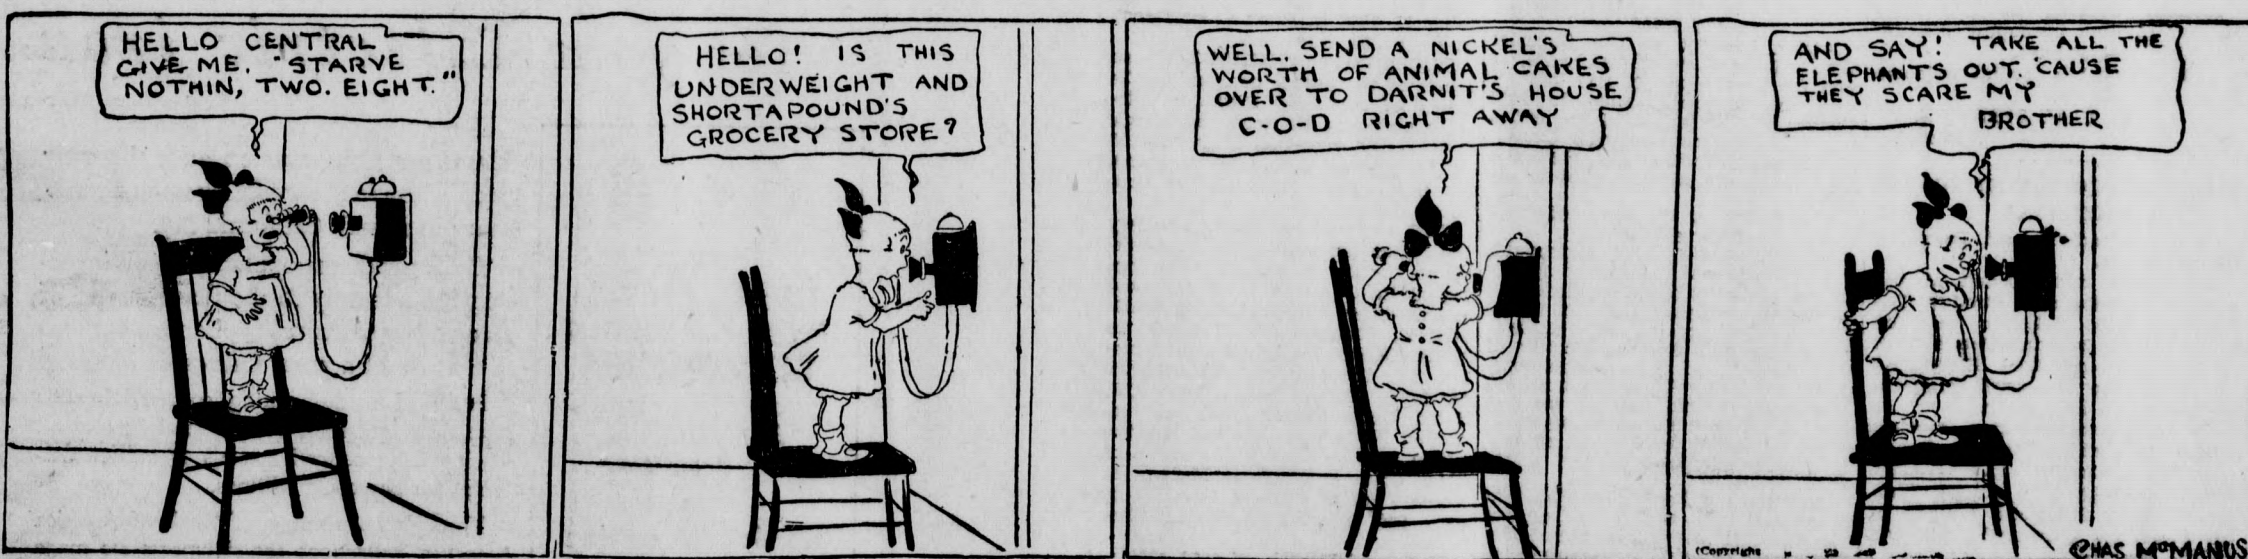

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pond and daughter, Miss Barbara Pond, returned last week to the family home on Scott street, San Francisco, for the winter months. We can count on their return in the early spring.

Eight members of the Woodside Girl Scouts passed their examinations in first aid work on Tuesday. The tests were given by Mrs. Viola Poole, of Redwood City, representing the Red Cross. They are promised their awards next Wednesday.

Mrs. Ida Hubell, a native of Switzerland, for many years a valued neighbor and resident of Woodside was one of those admitted to citizenship by the federal examiner and Judge Buck on Tuesday.

Mrs. N. Braley is in charge of the Junior Red Cross work in Woodside and has organized a considerable group of members among

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

During the Holiday Season Instant Hot Water is a time saver!

DURING the holiday season you need plenty of instant hot water. You save time in starting the cooking. You eliminate 60% of the work of dishwashing.

The proper way to wash dishes is to use plenty of soap in 120 degree water, followed by immersion in water of 180 degrees for a minute and air drying.

Instant hot water helps in all your household tasks. It is easier to keep things clean.

The Automatic Gas Water Heater requires no watching. It heats the water, stores it, and shuts itself off. The boiler is insulated. That is why no gas is wasted keeping the water hot. All you do for a basinful or a tubful of hot water is to turn a faucet anytime of the day or night.

As for cost, automatic hot water costs less per gallon than any other method of heating water in the home. Come into our office and see the Automatic Gas Water Heaters. You can have one installed for a small sum, the balance to be paid in monthly installments.

GAY ADVENTURERS BY MILDRED BARBOUR

CHAPTER 64

Sheila snatched into the hall and greeted Bellefonte with a carelessness that was not entirely genuine.

"Don't begin another quarrel," she warned him, "or I'll go to my room. The Baroness has told me of the scene you made today. I thought you were through with me. That's what you told me at our last interview. Now what has revived your interest?"

"I am badly in need of money," he said bluntly. "I have incurred a number of debts in anticipation of—well, with the idea that there would soon be plenty of money, and now my creditors are becoming impatient."

"I can't help you," she returned. "I haven't anything but by allowance, and that won't cover your needs."

"Borrow from your Aunt Sophie," he heard. "She's fond of you, and she'd be glad to help you."

"I can't," said Sheila. "because she knows that my allowance is ample for my own needs. What excuse could I give for asking more?"

"The excuse doesn't interest me. The money does," the Count returned. "I must have it."

"Then am I to think that you have dropped the idea of getting half a million from my father, in return for my freedom?"

"That is a matter I will discuss with your father," he replied. "Meanwhile, I must have money immediately to pay my most pressing debts."

"I'll see what I can do," she said, smiling to herself at his acceptance of that statement as his acceptance. "Now perhaps you'll apologize for your conduct this afternoon."

"I was hasty," he muttered. "Carlo told me of the incident in such a way that I thought, at first that you were trying to run away. Of course, I was very much disturbed. I had planned to see you this afternoon, to ask you to get some money for me by the way."

"I haven't told you how much I need. About fifty thousand will clear things up for the present."

"Oh," said Sheila faintly. "Then I'd better write Aunt Sophie at once." And she went to her room, chuckling to herself at the change in the Count's attitude toward her.

Bellefonte had reason to adopt a more conciliatory manner. Since his marriage to Constance Kerr, his debts had mounted steadily, and although his luck at cards helped him out of many tight places, the time had come when a reckoning with his creditors was inevitable.

He had waited before making any promises of payment, in the hope that Constance would be able to reconcile her father to their marriage. Now he could not put matters off no longer. Since he had long ago worn out his welcome at the villa of the acquaintance who had been his host when he came to Cannes, he decided that it was time to find other quarters. But where? The hotels were very expensive, and he couldn't ask the Baroness to put him up. He wondered whether he could find cheap lodgings. He could have his mail sent to one of the hotels, and since he never entertained, it made no difference where he lived.

He spent several afternoons prowling about obscure districts that were frequented by tourists, hoping to find something that would suit his purse. He finally found a little pension where he obtained a room that left much to be desired, but it was cheap. He consoled himself with the thought that, as the husband of Constance Kerr, the heiress, he would not occupy it long.

On the first day of his residence there he was astonished to see Dr. Mac entering a nearby house. This was going to be a nuisance. The fellow was undoubtedly economizing, too, but why did he have to pick the same neighborhood?

Bellefonte waited, hoping to see him leave. Perhaps he was only making a call. Then he remembered that Harry had said that Dr. Mac had moved to his hotel—the Crescent. The Count made inquiries there that night. Dr. Baxter was still there, the clerk told him. He felt better. The fellow was probably a good friend of a friend when he had met by chance.

But the next afternoon Dr. Mac passed again, just as the Count was on the way to his club. He went into the same house. The Count, loitering at a discreet distance, saw Dr. Mac emerge from the house, accompanied by a girl. A woman who wore the uniform of a nurse came to the door with them. They walked slowly down the street, and the Count followed. Then the doctor turned and hurried back to the house, while the girl waited for him. She was plainly dressed, but she had an air that was most distinctive.

The Count was greatly intrigued. His curiosity sent him striding toward her. But what if that fellow came out of the house at just the wrong moment? It would be embarrassing. The Count held his handkerchief to his face and walked past the girl. As he did so, she turned slowly in the opposite direction, and her hat was pulled so far over her eyes that he couldn't see anything, except her chin and the tip of her nose. But he thought he heard a sharp intake of breath. He glanced quickly over his shoulder and saw that she was hurrying back to the house, and although he waited a long time, neither she nor Dr. Mac appeared again.

He was greatly mystified. Who was this girl? And how strangely familiar she looked!

He asked the maid at his pension to find out who she was. The maid already knew. . . . An American. Miss Allen. . . . That had a familiar sound. Allen! Allen! Had he ever known an American girl named Allen?

6 of the 8 largest ELECTRICAL MANUFACTURING COMPANIES operating in California are depositors in Bank of America

SCARCELY a generation ago, the only electric iron in the world lay upon a work bench in a small California city.

The immediate popularity of this invention led not only to the development of many other electrical appliances, but also to the rise of a great California industry.

Electrical manufacturing concerns in this state make practically every type of equipment. Their yearly production totals 47 million dollars; their payroll, 4 millions.

Through cooperation of Bank of America branches, collections for shipments are made without delay. These funds are transferred promptly to or from any desired point.

Thus, outstanding funds are reduced; earning power of working capital is substantially increased.

Bank of America also furnishes dependable business reports, which enable manufacturers to improve their service to distributors.
